

2023
CORPORATE RESPONSIBILITY REPORT

RAYMOND JAMES

A letter from our chair and chief executive officer

Raymond James has a history of embedding a long-term perspective into our business decisions, our approach to “client-first” service and our people-driven culture.

As one of our firm’s four core values, long-term thinking has shown us the far-reaching impact it can have.

It empowers us to engage in comprehensive strategic planning and prepare for unexpected challenges. It helps us establish stability and build trust with people at every level of our organization, as well as the communities we live and work within.

This report showcases our dedication to our core values. In many ways, “corporate responsibility” is just another way to describe the way we’ve always done business. The following pages celebrate the work and achievements we’ve made.

We continue to adapt to navigate the regulatory landscape and stakeholder expectations as they evolve. This year, market conditions and inflation were top of mind for many of us. In combination with our firm’s core values, our strong governance practices ensured we stood resolute and remained adept despite economic uncertainty.

To continue to enhance associate engagement, attraction and retention, we took steps this year to define our employee value proposition, positioning Raymond James as a human-centered place to work. A place “where good people grow.” In addition, we continue to invest in our people by supporting the needs of our associates and advisors with investments in training, education and resources for development programs.

Our community support efforts through giving, fundraising and volunteering continued, too. Raymond James Cares Month remained the centerpiece of our firm’s annual volunteerism efforts for a 12th consecutive year. In addition, our largest charitable event of the year, the 52nd annual United Way campaign, was a record breaker generating $7.4 million – nearly $4 million of this total came from our generous associates and advisors.

And we continued to step up when communities needed it the most, contributing more than $1 million locally and globally in support of disaster and humanitarian relief for crises that affected the Raymond James community. It’s our commitment to putting others first – from our clients to our neighbors – established at our founding in 1962 which has shaped who we are today.

We are a people business. That means the people who do the work are just as important as those we do it for. Our Chair Emeritus, Tom James, is someone who has consistently demonstrated and embodied our people-first values. After an impressive 48 years of service, including 40 years as CEO, Tom announced his retirement from the board of directors this year. We express our gratitude for his enduring commitment, and it fills us with pleasure that he will continue to serve as our chair emeritus as we continue to nurture the client-first culture he so deliberately established.

Amid the rapid changes in the world, I’m immensely proud of the dedication and integrity demonstrated each and every day by our associates and advisors. With each step we take toward progress let us remember that building a sustainable future is more than a choice – it’s our responsibility.

Business led by our principles

People-driven. Values-built. Future-focused. They're the core tenets that have been fundamental to our firm for over six decades.

These principles are at the core of what drives our people, sustainability, community and governance best practices, as we work to build a more sustainable future. In other words, corporate responsibility is just another way to describe the way we've always done business.

Over the past year, we have continued to invest in areas that align with these principles. This includes:

- Responding to and supporting associate, advisor and client needs
- Investing in the training and education of advisors and associates on relevant topics
- Through our Risk Management function, continuing to evaluate emerging exposures
- Evolving governance processes to ensure effective oversight of our businesses

We put clients first.

We act with integrity.

We think long term.

We value independence.

2023 in review

Through fiscal year 2023, we maintained focus on our people, sustainability, community and governance as we sought to build a more sustainable future for clients, associates, advisors and the communities we serve.

Our guiding imperatives

Attract talented people and provide the resources they need to grow

Nurture a culture where everyone is welcomed, respected, valued and free to thrive as themselves

Prioritize people and their well-being, providing benefits and resources that recognize needs beyond the workplace

Employee value proposition

Attracting those who respect and inspire others to do great work, and then treating them well and helping them achieve their goals, is the hallmark of our culture.

WHERE GOOD PEOPLE GROW

Raymond James is and has always been a firm focused on people. This principle guides our business at every level, including how we attract talented people and support their personal goals and professional development.

In 2023, informed by insight from associates representing various roles, seniorities, business units and locations, we took steps to more clearly articulate an employee value proposition that reflects the environment we've always strived to create: Raymond James is a place "where good people grow."

"Good" encapsulates the shared values that drive the firm and motivate each associate and advisor to treat each other well and do what's best for their clients. "Grow" means more than personal career growth or the growth of the business, but also the impact our firm has on the clients we serve and the communities where we live and work.

THE ASSOCIATE EXPERIENCE

Our culture constitutes our beliefs, attitudes and behaviors, and the associate experience is how we operationalize our culture. How our associates internalize and perceive day-to-day interactions is based on their work satisfaction, their environment and the support they receive. Our employee value proposition reflects that intended associate experience.

Diversity, equity and inclusion

Diversity, equity and inclusion are critical to the continuing success of our business and important aspects of our culture.

BUSINESS UNIT DEVELOPMENTS

Throughout 2023, we continued to advance key initiatives first introduced in 2021, implementing strategies throughout the firm, including the establishment of:

- Aspirational goals for each executive committee member around diversity, equity and inclusion
- Diversity, equity and inclusion councils within individual business units
- Action plans for individual business units and department-specific committees

DIVERSITY, EQUITY AND INCLUSION LEADERS' SUMMIT

Our diversity, equity and inclusion (DEI) vision involves intentionally nurturing an environment where everyone feels welcomed, respected, valued, heard and free to bring their whole selves to work. In January 2023, the firm's DEI team hosted the inaugural DEI Leaders' Summit. Leaders and champions of our DEI efforts from across the firm came together for a day of learning, celebrating, strategic planning and relationship building. As we reflected on the firm's journey and our progress, the summit provided an opportunity to reaffirm our mission and vision.

Our guiding imperatives

Create opportunities that enable clients to explore impact-focused investment products for a balanced consideration of risk and return

Provide direct financing to organizations and municipalities interested in supporting sustainable business and community development

Reduce the environmental impact of our business processes through proactive engagement with suppliers and partners

Sustainable investing

To support clients and their goals, we offer a range of sustainable and values-based investments. These options cater to various wealth objectives, accommodate risk tolerances and contribute to impact goals.

For those clients who choose to invest this way, our sustainable investing platform comprises a variety of offerings across our asset management, global wealth solutions and capital markets businesses. We seek to make it easy for clients to ensure their investment execution matches their impact intention.

DEFINING SUSTAINABLE INVESTING

Sustainable investing is an approach in which environmental, social and corporate governance (ESG) criteria are considered in making investment decisions, often with the goal of generating both long-term financial returns and positive societal impact.

A range of sustainability issues can be considered in assessing a company’s potential for long-term performance, such as how companies manage natural resources and supply chains, treat their customers and associates, and oversee business risks.

INVESTMENT STRATEGIES

We offer many sustainable investment strategies that vary based on different client motivations. These approaches are not mutually exclusive so advisors and their clients can continue to work to find the right mix of methodologies to complement each client’s specific risk tolerance and goals.

Example approaches may include:

- ESG AWARE: “MINIMIZING RISK”
Select material ESG risk factors may be considered in the investment analysis.
- EXCLUSION: “AVOIDING EXPOSURE”
Companies or sectors that do not align with personal values may be excluded from consideration.
- ESG INTEGRATION: “SEEKING BALANCE”
ESG principles are blended with other fundamental and technical insights to develop a well-rounded perspective on a company’s prospects in assessing risk and return in the near and long term.
- ESG FOCUSED: “CONSCIOUSLY ENGAGED”
One or more ESG factors are used as a main or significant consideration in selecting investments or in engagement efforts with companies.
- IMPACT: “PRIORITIZING IMPACT”
This strategy aims to intentionally generate measurable social or environmental outcomes as well as a financial return, across broad-based goals or narrow themes.

ADVISOR-GUIDED APPROACH

SUSTAINABLE INVESTING ADVISORY COUNCIL

Comprising 15 advisors and 25 home office representatives encompassing all four Raymond James business segments and most product and service departments, the Raymond James Sustainable Investing Advisory Council provides feedback on the firm's sustainable investment educational programs, tools and solutions.

“The council has been an incredible way to learn about the sustainable investing resources available to advisors, in addition to discussing broader sustainable investing trends and impacts. This knowledge has helped me confidently open the door to sustainable investing options for my clients.”

– Camille York Adrien, RJA, Clark & York Wealth Partners, Tampa, FL

CRUCIAL CONVERSATIONS EDUCATION SERIES

Throughout 2023, we presented “Crucial Conversations,” a new educational series, launched with guidance from the Sustainable Investing Advisory Council, to help advisors explore values with their clients.

This presentation draws upon client satisfaction data, investment case studies and peer best practices to showcase how advisors can expertly explore their clients' values and investing goals to attract and retain assets in flight. Key takeaways include discussion guides and purpose-built tools – including conversation cards, an impact assessment and family meeting templates – to help advisors understand the unique needs of their clients.

A GROWING REACH

Since its October 2022 launch, Crucial Conversations has been attended by over 1,000 advisors at national conferences, regional symposiums and the firm's private wealth designation program.

“I came away from Crucial Conversations with a new understanding of the next decade's wealth transfer, and the leading role women will have in owning those dollars. The data presented gave me actionable ideas for creating deeper conversation with my clients, and for new ways to leverage our firm resources to support what I learn about their values and legacy goals.”

– Larry Ellis, First Vice President, Investments, CFP®*, St. Petersburg, FL

IMPACT ASSESSMENT

Launched in conjunction with Ethos, the Impact Assessment tool is a questionnaire that helps advisors identify the causes and issues – like healthcare access, clean water or faith-based values – that are most important to their clients.

*CFP Board owns the mark CFP® in the U.S.

Androscoggin Bank

Androscoggin Bank is affiliated with Raymond James' Financial Institutions Division as a client and offers wealth management services to its clients across the state of Maine. The bank is a certified B Corporation* and has long been committed to creating an inclusive workplace focused on creating positive social and environmental impacts. When selecting a financial firm to partner with to offer brokerage and advisory services, the bank encountered a remarkable alignment in the values-focused culture of Raymond James.

“It is a wonderful feeling to know that Raymond James offers a long-standing and comprehensive range of sustainable investment solutions,” said VP-Director of Financial Services Steven English. “Whether a client is simply curious as to how they can begin integrating ESG risk factors into their portfolio or if they're ready to make an impact with their investments, I know the firm has something that will help them achieve their financial goals. Our partnership with Raymond James exemplifies what can happen when you bring together common values and a shared commitment to responsible and impactful financial services.”

ASSET MANAGER DIVERSITY SURVEY

We launched an asset manager diversity survey in July 2023 in response to growing advisor demand for minority-led investment strategies and minority-owned asset management firms.

The voluntary survey was sent to asset managers that offer investment products on our platform. The survey gathered information from more than 100 companies about the diversity of their owners, boards of directors and investment management teams. Relevant responses are provided to advisors upon request for purposes important to their client, such as a desire to invest with diverse portfolio management teams. Participation did not impact platform availability or placement on the firm's recommendations list.

EXPANDING RESOURCES AND OFFERINGS

ASSET MANAGEMENT SERVICES

Raymond James Asset Management Services (AMS), through our Freedom platform, offers sustainable investment model portfolios using mutual funds and exchange traded funds (ETFs) to expose interested investors to allocations that incorporate ESG objectives. Approximately $877 million in assets under management is held in these portfolios, the first of which was launched in 2018.

Combined with 20 separately managed account strategies offered through Raymond James Consulting Services, sustainable investing portfolios available on the platform held approximately $1.9 billion in assets under management in fiscal year 2023. Approximately 32% of advisors leveraged these strategies.

AMS also provides advisors and their clients access to sustainability-related offerings through direct indexing and tax loss harvesting programs from our asset management partners. These solutions make it possible to personalize a portfolio based on a broad market index to suit clients' preferences and values. As examples, these customizations may exclude thermal coal, alcohol or tobacco, or include adherence to religious principles.

MUTUAL FUNDS AND ETFs

In fiscal year 2023, we added 10 sustainable mutual funds and ETFs to our platform to bring the total to over 300* distinct mutual fund and ETF options. These offerings focus on a variety of sustainable investing topics including climate, water, renewable energy and diversity. As of the end of the 2023 fiscal year:

- Nearly $4.7 billion in assets under management were invested in sustainable mutual fund and ETF strategies
- 78% of advisors utilize at least one sustainable investment fund with their clients
- 13% of advisors managed at least $1 million in sustainably invested assets

As the firm's client base has diversified, interest in values-aligned and faith-based investing has grown. Independent of the sustainable fund platform, more than 120 funds are available encompassing exclusionary principles or faith-based screens only.

In response to a growing number of client requests around faith-based investing, the firm approved the Certified Kingdom Advisor (CKA) designation for advisor marketing use in September. This training helps advisors deliver advice to clients who want to align their investments with Christian values.

Sustainable investing in the United Kingdom

As part of the continuing enhancements of our UK wealth capabilities, Charles Stanley, a division of Raymond James, has made progress toward updating its responsible investment policy, consistent with the United Nations’ Principles for Responsible Investment, and adhering to the fiduciary responsibility investment managers have to their clients. The policy is accompanied by responsible investment philosophies and guiding principles.

The policy informs a principles-based approach, ensuring investment managers retain investment authority and autonomy with regard to:

- Investigation
- Engagement and stewardship
- Integration
- Voting
- Exclusions and ethical screening
- Impact investing
- Reporting

TASK FORCE ON CLIMATE-RELATED FINANCIAL DISCLOSURES REPORTING TOOL

ENHANCING RAYMOND JAMES INVESTMENT MANAGEMENT’S CAPABILITIES

Raymond James Investment Management (RJIM) is continuing to build sustainable investing capabilities throughout its organization, focusing closely on the ever-evolving regulatory landscape as well as on strengthening stewardship practices.

The work of the Stewardship Committee and active participation by the company’s investment teams demonstrate how RJIM strives to act in the best interests of its clients by supporting ballot items that contribute to long-term value creation, including improving shareholder rights, board accountability and transparency – basic tenets of sustainable investing.

Examples of corporate engagement informing proxy voting decisions:

- A team from Eagle Asset Management engaged an investment banking and brokerage firm prior to its annual general meeting to discuss, among other issues, board composition, executive compensation and omnibus stock plan. This discussion informed the Eagle team’s vote on the related ballot items. The team will continue conversations with the company.
- Another Eagle team engaged company management of a restaurant chain regarding the reporting and reduction of greenhouse gas (GHG) emissions. The team will continue to monitor the company’s progress in this area.

Our approach to environmental sustainability

As equipment and systems in our facilities reach the end of their useful lives, we seek to replace them with more energy-efficient items. Additionally, we look for opportunities to implement environmental sustainability initiatives that will create meaningful improvements, while also considering ease of implementation and financial returns. These initiatives include facility infrastructure improvements, floor renovations, increased recycling and diversion of materials away from landfills for repurposing (e.g., used furniture and office supplies), centralized waste, paper suppression, etc.

We strive to reuse items, purchase environmentally friendly and sustainable products, recycle items when possible and look for opportunities to engage with our vendors in reducing emissions from our activities.

As part of this approach, we recently performed a review of our sustainability initiatives to develop a multiyear strategy. This strategy was reviewed by both the Executive Committee and Corporate Governance & ESG Committee of the Raymond James Financial board of directors and will be used to direct our future efforts in this space.

2022 GREENHOUSE GAS ASSESSMENT

To better understand our environmental impact, we measured our greenhouse gas emissions and engaged a third-party auditor to provide a limited level of assurance. For transparency, we have disclosed these impacts in line with guidelines created by the Task Force on Climate Related Financial Disclosures.

See the disclosure on page 68.

PARTNER SPOTLIGHT

3DE INNOVATORS SHOWCASE PARTNERSHIP WITH JUNIOR ACHIEVEMENT

In 1982, then-CEO now Chair Emeritus Tom James joined the board of Junior Achievement of Tampa Bay – marking the beginning of Raymond James’ partnership with Junior Achievement.

Immersive, experiential learning that provides high schoolers with hands-on opportunities to develop financial literacy skills has always been a key component of Junior Achievement’s work. BizTown and Finance Park were among the first initiatives to help equip children with financial and economic skills. The 3DE program is the next step in the evolution of that financial literacy journey for high schoolers.

In April, Raymond James hosted the first ever 3DE Innovators Showcase in partnership with Junior Achievement, an event that welcomed 11th-grade students from across the Tampa Bay area to the St. Petersburg home office.

The 3DE Innovators Showcase was a culmination of many hours of hard work and dedication from students across the four Tampa Bay schools. The selected team from each school was challenged to create a business idea using seed capital, develop a plan and case and present their pitch to a panel of judges made up of Raymond James executives and members of the public.

Raymond James is proud to play an active role in helping raise awareness for this important project that empowers women to take control of their heart health.

“It’s so important for everyone to know their numbers. Know your heart rate, cholesterol, blood pressure – so that you can know what you need to improve, and so that if you do experience a health event and need to go to the hospital, you can be ready to tell them what is normal for you and what is not.”

– Amanda Stevens, Executive Vice President, Chief Operating Officer of Raymond James Bank, Board member for Go Red for Women

ADVISOR SPOTLIGHT

HERMANOS DE LA CALLE

Narciso Muñoz is a managing director at the Alex. Brown branch in Miami. Outside the firm, Muñoz is also the president and founder of Hermanos de la Calle, a charitable organization serving the needs of the South Florida homeless community.

With a desire to teach his eight sons about giving back, Narciso started by bringing his kids to volunteer at a local soup kitchen and quickly realized he wanted to do more – he wanted to create lasting change. That’s how Hermanos de la Calle (“Brothers of the Street”) was born.

Reynaldo Figueredo, also a director at Alex. Brown in Miami, joined Muñoz in his efforts to make a difference and now serves as vice president of Hermanos de la Calle. Today, the organization is a nonprofit dedicated to uplifting, supporting and rehabilitating those experiencing homelessness in Miami-Dade County, by providing safe housing, mental and emotional support, access to healthcare, legal services, employment opportunities and reconnection to family.

The organization serves its constituents by finding them safe places to live, providing access to healthcare services, providing legal aid, introducing them to a community of peer advocates and case managers, and helping them secure employment.

Hermanos de la Calle also recently began partnering with the Miami-Dade County as an official service provider for homeless families and individuals. The organization is often the first call for migrant families arriving to Miami. With increased funding and a growing population of dedicated volunteers, Muñoz hopes to grow the organization beyond the Miami city limits.

THE SOUP KITCHEN

The Soup Kitchen helps homeless, elderly, lonely and vulnerable people in London. It provides free meals, clothing, toiletries and a sense of belonging to over 150 people daily. Raymond James volunteers with The Soup Kitchen monthly, and in 2023 donated £10,000, helping to provide winter essentials, kitchen supplies and food.

Culture and the arts

Under the leadership of Chair Emeritus Tom James, in 2023 Raymond James continued its commitment as a top sponsor supporting various forms of art, such as visual arts, theater and music. This support is sustained through sponsorships for organizations and free public events.

INVISIBLE WORLDS AT THE AMERICAN MUSEUM OF NATURAL HISTORY IN NEW YORK CITY

Raymond James is proud to be the inaugural sponsor of the newly opened Invisible Worlds experience within the Gilder Center at the American Museum of Natural History in New York City.

We strive to make a difference by providing educational opportunities for our associates, affiliates and advisors. As part of our belief that learning should last a lifetime, we seek to make an impact in our communities by working to pique curiosity, inspire exploration and shape the development of current and future leaders.

In line with that commitment to education and innovation, we are delighted to support Invisible Worlds, which features an immersive, state-of-the-art science-visualization experience that transports visitors to networks of life at all scales – from the lush canopy of the rainforest to a single strand of DNA.

GASPARILLA FESTIVAL OF THE ARTS

For a 25th consecutive year, in 2023 Raymond James was the title sponsor for the annual Gasparilla Festival of the Arts – a juried fine art showcase of the most accomplished artists and rising stars in the United States. Our sponsorship helps make this event free and open to all to attend. Improving art accessibility, the festival also supports high school artists with scholarships.

MUSKEGON MUSEUM OF ART IN MICHIGAN

Raymond James of Downtown Muskegon has sponsored the Bennett Prize since its inception in 2018 with the goal of promoting amateur women artists and giving them an opportunity to win $50,000 for their solo exhibitions of figurative realist paintings. This competition empowers women all over the country who are new artists and those who have painted for many years.

THE FLORIDA ORCHESTRA

The firm is a long-standing headline sponsor of The Florida Orchestra’s Raymond James Pops, a concert series that brings the greatest works from Broadway, cinema and pop music to life. The firm is the 2023 lead sponsor of “Pops in the Park,” in Tampa, which is a free event open to the public. Our support helps the orchestra remain a prominent arts organization in the Southeast that produces a spectrum of events that enrich our community.

AMERICAN STAGE

As a longtime contributor, we’re proud to have continued our support of the St. Petersburg, Florida theater company, American Stage, for another year running. Each year – barring the three years surrounding COVID-19 – the American Stage in the Park series has been a leading outdoor theatrical production and artistic endeavor in the community.

“The fabric of a thriving community comes from many threads. Good economic opportunities, quality education and safe neighborhoods are centrally important, of course, but often overlooked is the role of a community’s arts. Art inspires our greatest adventures and connects us to one another and our history. It makes our cities places we want to be, to celebrate and to make better. It differentiates the good places to live from the truly great ones.”

– Tom James, Chair Emeritus

Compensation governance

We have created systems to help us use compensation fairly and in alignment with our values and business objectives.

PAY EQUITY

We utilize a robust statistical analysis that is performed annually by a third-party consulting firm to review associate pay within similarly situated roles. The analysis focuses on identifying disparities that may need to be addressed.

We recognize that compensation adjustments are only one part of the solution. In order to further minimize risk, we also seek to embed pay equity actions in our recruiting processes, aware that asking about previous pay can perpetuate disparities. We provide training for hiring managers and recruiters to reinforce the continued need to protect compensation confidentiality at hire.

EXECUTIVE COMPENSATION

We compete for talent with other large financial services firms throughout the United States, Canada, the United Kingdom and Europe, and our ability to sustain or improve our position in this highly competitive environment depends substantially on our ability to continue to attract and retain the most qualified employees. We thus strive to design compensation programs that enable us to attract, motivate and retain high-quality executive officers and ensure that their individual interests are aligned with those of our shareholders. Our pay-for-performance goal is to reward executive officers for the achievement of near-term and long-term strategic and operational goals while at the same time avoiding excessive risk-taking. We therefore structure our incentive awards to include vesting, deferred payment, and cancellation and clawback provisions that protect the company.

Our executive compensation program emphasizes discretionary variable annual performance compensation and long-term incentive compensation, a portion of which will be received by the executive only upon our attainment of specific financial targets. We award annual grants to reward achievement of the company's financial and strategic objectives. In addition, a portion of long-term incentive compensation serves shareholders' interests by conditioning vesting upon future performance that delivers on the company's long-term business strategy. We believe that delivering equity aligns employees' interests with those of shareholders and helps motivate executives to achieve financial and strategic goals within the bounds of the company's risk tolerance levels.

EQUITY-BASED COMPENSATION

We deliver a substantial portion of incentive compensation in the form of equity awards – specifically Restricted Stock Units (RSUs) – a portion of which will vest based on future performance of the company. We believe that delivering equity aligns employee interests with those of shareholders and helps motivate executives to achieve financial and strategic goals within the bounds of the company's risk tolerance levels. These awards are also subject to cancellation and clawback over a multi-year period.

The annual bonus for our CEO is delivered 50% in cash and 50% in the form of RSUs. 60% of the portion paid in RSUs will vest on the third anniversary of the grant only if the company attains certain defined average adjusted return on common equity (“Adjusted ROE”) levels (“performance RSUs” or “PRSUs”). Commencing with the 2021 grants, the portion of PRSUs that vests will be further subject to modification (increase or decrease) based on the company's relative total shareholder return (rTSR). The remaining 40% of the portion paid in RSUs will vest on the third anniversary of grant. Where the annual bonus of one of our other executive officers (including NEOs) exceeds $275,000, a variable portion of the amount over $250,000 is similarly delivered in RSUs. The proportion of bonus delivered in RSUs increases with the size of the bonus.

Of the RSUs delivered to such other executive officers, 50% are performance RSUs that will vest on the third anniversary of the grant only if the company attains certain defined average Adjusted ROE levels. The three-year average Adjusted ROE is calculated by adding Adjusted ROE for each of the years included in the applicable vesting period and dividing by three. Commencing with the 2021 awards, the amount vesting is further subject to modification (increases or decreases) based on the company's rTSR. The remaining 50% of these RSUs vest on the third anniversary of grant.

Risk management

Our risk management efforts have oversight by our board of directors and extend through every level of the firm, consistent with our guiding principles of integrity, long-term thinking and conservative management. We reinforce this responsibility and create transparency and accountability through a multilayered risk management process that use a “three lines of risk management” model.

THREE LINES OF RISK MANAGEMENT MODEL

The principal risks related to our business activities are market, credit, liquidity, operational, model and compliance. Our three-line approach to risk management creates appropriate redundancy and mutual accountability.

First line

Business units

Our first line, which includes all of our businesses, owns its risks and is responsible for helping to identify, escalate and mitigate risks arising from its day-to-day activities.

Second line

Compliance and Risk Management departments

Our second line supports and provides guidance and oversight to client-facing businesses in identifying and mitigating risk. This line also tests and monitors the effectiveness of controls, escalates risks and reports on these risks.

Third line

Internal Audit

The third line, Internal Audit, independently reviews activities conducted by the previous lines of risk management to assess their management and mitigation of risk, with a view toward enhancing our efforts in these areas.

IDENTIFYING AND MANAGING RISK IS A CRITICAL PART OF WHO WE ARE

As a firm focused on and built around the principles of long-term planning, we have grown with a deep understanding of the importance of identifying and managing potential impacts to our business.

To manage these events, we maintain and test plans covering a wide range of potential incidents caused by severe weather, infectious disease, threats to data integrity and confidentiality, climate change, and other hazards.

Learn more about our business continuity planning and procedures.

The nexus for this planning and business continuity leadership is our Crisis Management team. This team comprises senior managers representing key areas of the firm. This group, with input from the executive committee, assesses and directs the company’s responses to potentially disruptive incidents, seeking to ensure the safety and security of all associates and the continuity of critical business processes.

To help identify these events, we have required risk management training across all three lines of our risk management model. These training courses assist our associates in gaining a deeper understanding of how they can help the firm adhere to its legal and regulatory compliance obligation.

RISK MANAGEMENT GOVERNANCE

The RJF Enterprise Risk Management Committee (ERMC) oversees the firm’s daily risk management activities with support from its seven subcommittees.

These subcommittees focus on the firm’s more distinct risk areas. The ERMC regularly reports to the RJF Board Risk Committee, which is a committee of the RJF Board of Directors. The ERMC may also escalate concerns or disagreements with the management of risk to the RJF Board Risk Committee.

Cybersecurity risk oversight and governance

Financial information is a perpetually attractive target for criminals, and our clients expect us to protect their information and confidentiality. With oversight by our board of directors, we have designed our systems and processes in an attempt to stay ahead of threats with multiple layers of active measures and continuous scrutiny to protect our technology and physical facilities.

OUR CYBERSECURITY GOVERNANCE, STRUCTURES AND PROCESSES INCLUDE:

BOARD OVERSIGHT

The Board has appointed the Risk Committee to assist it in oversight of the Company's assessment and management of key risks, including cybersecurity risk. The Risk Committee receives regular presentations and reports from our chief information security officer (CISO) on cybersecurity incidents, risks, trends and strategies. The Risk Committee also reviews and approves enterprise risk tolerance levels, which include "risk appetite" statements and key risk indicators related to cyber risk. In addition, a cybersecurity presentation is delivered to the full Board at least annually, including discussion and evaluation of emerging cyber risks.

PREVENTING, DETECTING, MITIGATING AND REPORTING CYBERSECURITY

Raymond James' cybersecurity strategy takes a defense-in-depth approach, with layered controls consisting of both commercial and proprietary technologies that are intended to prevent an adversary from conducting a successful attack. Included in that approach is active system monitoring and alerting, enabling us to promptly and proactively respond to potential malicious or anomalous activity. Our Cyber Threat Center operates 24 hours per day, 7 days per week, and utilizes an incident response playbook – including containment and recovery procedures – based on National Institute of Standards and Technology (NIST) industry "best practices." The cybersecurity program is led by our CISO, who reports to the IT Chief Operating Officer, who has 20 years of cybersecurity experience and 25 years in the financial services industry.

Additionally, we conduct ongoing internal vulnerability assessments, a variety of periodic risk assessment initiatives, and also engage third parties to conduct penetration tests and adversarial simulated exercises, referred to as "red team" exercises, on a recurring basis. Our cybersecurity professionals work as part of a multidisciplinary team, which includes members of our risk management, regulatory, privacy, finance and legal teams, to assess incidents for reporting.

BUSINESS CONTINUITY, CONTINGENCY AND RECOVERY PLANS

We also maintain business continuity plans that include identification of critical functions, third-party suppliers and personnel. Our information technology (IT) department executes several disaster recovery exercises per year in order to test our capabilities and ensure that business recovery needs can be met during a real-world event. Additionally, IT participates in annual crisis management exercises to test our operational responses and assess our preparedness for various scenarios, including cyber incidents. We also participate annually in industry-wide exercises, as well as internal tabletop exercises, to test our response capabilities.

In addition, we maintain cyber insurance coverage as an additional layer of protection.

CYBERSECURITY RISKS ARE CRITICAL TO OUR BUSINESS STRATEGY

We consider cybersecurity risks in our business strategy decisions, including in connection with our acquisition activity. In addition, we seek to continuously enhance our policies, procedures and technologies to adapt to the evolving environment.

VENDOR CYBERSECURITY RISK POLICIES

Our supplier risk management program includes policies and standards requiring that we perform cybersecurity due diligence reviews on our vendors based on the inherent risk profile of a particular supplier or service provider. We also monitor certain of our principal suppliers and service providers on an ongoing basis by conducting additional periodic reviews.

*The EEO-1 report provides a view of our U.S. workforce demographics, aligned with EEO job categories from October 2 to 16, 2022, the start of our 2023 fiscal year. 		Description of approach to incorporation of environmental, social and governance (ESG) factors in investment and/or wealth management processes and strategies	At Raymond James Investment Management ("RJIM"), we believe investor interests are best served by allocating capital to organizations that generate long-term value for all constituents. Our boutique investment managers have a longstanding commitment to investing that recognizes the core values of our clients. We believe that considering environmental, social, and governance issues is an important part of what we do as asset managers. We are actively seeking to help clients find attractive performance and minimize risk through sustainable investment practices. While each of the RJIM affiliated boutique investment management firms is unique in its investment approach, they all share a commitment to investing for the long term. Incorporating sustainable investing considerations is at the heart of the Raymond James Investment Management approach to responsible investing. The majority of strategies across RJIM's boutique investment firms, both equity and fixed income, are grounded in fundamental analysis and, as such, incorporate ESG factors as part of the overall analysis. However, there are several strategies that are ESG-focused, where ESG factors are key drivers of the investment decision.
	FN-AC-410a.3	Description of proxy voting and investee engagement policies and procedures	Raymond James Investment Management established the Stewardship Committee (f.k.a Proxy Voting Committee) composed of representatives from the affiliate investment teams. In general, RJIM's affiliates support shareholder resolutions that improve transparency, support diversity, protect the environment, uphold human rights, and promote sound governance and responsible business practices. While each of RJIM's boutique management firms has its own approach to corporate engagement, the Stewardship Committee developed a framework to help guide those efforts. Corporate engagement can take many forms, including calls, letters and/or emails with company management. Investment teams can engage with portfolio companies on issues of concern, either directly or as part of a pooled engagement effort with a third-party service provider. Regardless of the method used, engagement is an important means to help effect positive change.

GOVERNANCE

The Board and management both play important roles in the oversight of climate-related opportunities and risks.

BOARD OVERSIGHT

The Board delegates aspects of its climate-related oversight responsibilities to the Corporate Governance & ESG (CG & ESG) Committee, the Risk Committee, and the Audit Committee. Additional details on the responsibilities for these groups are detailed below.

CG & ESG Committee

The Corporate Governance and ESG Committee (CG & ESG) of the Raymond James Board of Directors coordinates oversight of the firm's enterprise-level ESG efforts. The committee receives a quarterly update, at minimum, on the firm's ESG program, including updates on strategy, voluntary reporting efforts and upcoming regulatory requirements. In addition, the CG & ESG Committee is responsible for reviewing and overseeing Raymond James' strategies, policies and programs with respect to environmental matters (including climate) and stakeholder engagement efforts, and for reviewing and discussing with senior management the content of Raymond James' annual corporate responsibility report and other significant communications or disclosures regarding ESG matters.

In 2023, as part of a joint meeting with the Risk Committee and the CG & ESG Committee, the Committees reviewed the assessment done to identify potential climate risks across Raymond James' business areas and risk categories.

A full list of the Committee's responsibilities can be found in the charter here.

Risk Committee

The Risk Committee assists the Board in overseeing management's responsibility to implement an effective risk management framework reasonably designed to identify, assess and manage the Company's key risks (including climate-related risk considerations). The Committee's responsibilities also include oversight of the company's risk governance structure, and review and approval of its primary risk policies.

In 2023, as part of a joint meeting with the Risk Committee and the CG & ESG Committee, the Committees reviewed the assessment done to identify potential climate risks across Raymond James' business areas and risk categories.

A full list of the Committee's responsibilities can be found in the charter here.

Audit Committee

The Audit Committee assists the Board in its oversight of (1) the integrity of the Company's financial reporting; (2) the independent accountants' qualifications; independence; and performance; (3) the Company's systems of internal controls; (4) the performance of the Company's Internal Audit Department; and (5) the Company's compliance with legal and regulatory requirements. The Committee also provides oversight of Raymond James' ESG financial policies and disclosures.

In 2023, as part of their standard discussions on emerging topics, the firm's external auditors provided the Audit Committee a briefing on the proposed SEC Climate Rule.

A full list of the Committee's responsibilities can be found in the charter here.

MANAGEMENT OVERSIGHT

ESG activities and climate risk are primarily overseen by the ESG Committee (ESGC) and the Enterprise Risk Management Committee (ERMC), with input from the Climate Risk Working Group (CRWG). Members of the Risk Management organization are included on the ESGC to help inform the Committee on climate-related risk. Additional details on the responsibilities for these groups are detailed below:

ESGC

The ESGC provides enterprise-level oversight in achieving RJF's ESG strategy and goals. The ESGC, comprising a cross-functional group of senior management, meets at least quarterly to discuss program strategy and progress of various initiatives, including climate-related activities.

In 2023, climate-related topics discussed by the ESGC included a review of the CRWG's activities (see below) and a discussion on the strategic initiatives intended to help improve our operations' environmental sustainability.

The ESGC reports to the Corporate Governance and ESG Committee of the RJF Board of Directors.

The ESGC's responsibilities include, but are not limited to:

- Propose and oversee the company's ESG strategy
- Recommend appropriate ESG goals and track progress, including ESG metrics
- Review adherence to selected ESG frameworks
- Assign business unit responsibility for completeness and accuracy of information provided and disclosed in various components of the ESG program

- Oversee the ESG reporting and disclosure strategy
- Update the RJF Board and Executive Committee on current and emerging ESG matters
- Advise the company on shareholder proposals relating to ESG
- Prioritize ESG opportunities based on potential impact and stakeholder expectations
- Monitor stakeholder ESG sentiment, including proxy voter expectations and client demand for products/solutions
- Monitor ESG ratings assigned by external parties for their accuracy
- Ensure an appropriate communication strategy for ESG activities, both internal and external
- Escalate any resource concerns impacting the ability to achieve the defined ESG strategy

ERMC

The purpose of the ERMC is to provide oversight in achieving RJF's enterprise risk management (ERM) mission: to maximize RJF's ability to achieve its business objectives by creating a comprehensive approach to anticipate, identify, prioritize, and manage material risks to business objectives. As part of this mission, the ERMC reviews key risks, regulatory matters, ensures issues are addressed within the committed timeline, and oversees the enterprise policy framework, including providing formal review and approval of enterprise policies.

The ERMC also oversees the firm's formal ERM program, which assesses and reviews aggregate risks across the company. Over the past year, climate risk was formally added to the ERMC's risk taxonomy and is to be considered and evaluated across all enterprise risk categories.

In 2023, climate-related topics discussed by the ERMC included a review of the CRWG's activities (see below).

The ERMC reports to the Risk Committee of the RJF Board of Directors.

CRWG

The CRWG was established in January 2023 and is responsible for performing an initial assessment to identify where there is the potential for climate risk across Raymond James' business areas and risk categories. This group is led by Risk Management and includes members from Compliance and the Enterprise Sustainability Office.

The group provides updates to the ERMC and coordinates with the ESGC.

In 2023, the CRWG presented both the results of the assessment done to identify potential climate risks across Raymond James' business areas and risk categories as well as the output of the qualitative scenario analysis to both the ERMC and the ESGC.

STRATEGY

CLIMATE-RELATED OPPORTUNITIES

To respond to advisor and client demand, we have supported climate-related opportunities across our many businesses. For further details on these opportunities and select information on climate-related business achievements and transactions from the past year, please refer to p. 18-24 in the Sustainability section of this report.

We acknowledge our real estate footprint has an impact on the environment. We seek opportunities to optimize our resource usage and promote sustainable resource management across our operational footprint. This includes replacing equipment and systems in our facilities with more energy-efficient items, purchasing environmentally friendly and sustainable products, and recycling items when possible. For further details of efforts made over the past year to address these opportunities, please refer to p. 25-30 in the Sustainability section of this report.

CLIMATE-RELATED RISKS

Climate change also poses risks for our business. As described in the Form 10-K, physical risk could pose a threat to our operations as well as the financial condition of our clients. With respect to our operations, certain of our principal operations are located in St. Petersburg, Florida. While we have a business continuity plan that provides for significant operations to be conducted out of remote locations, as well as our Southfield, Michigan and Memphis, Tennessee corporate offices, and our U.S. information systems processing to be conducted out of our information technology data center in the Denver, Colorado area, our operations could be adversely affected by hurricanes or other serious weather conditions, including extreme weather events caused by climate change, that could affect the processing of transactions, communications, and the ability of our associates to get to our offices or work remotely. Our operations are dependent on our associates' ability to relocate to a secondary location in the event of a power outage or other disruption in their primary remote work location. Such weather events may also have a negative impact on the financial condition of our clients, which may decrease revenues from those clients and increase the credit risk associated with loans and other credit exposures to those clients.

Additionally, we are subject to a variety of risks, including reputational risk, associated with ESG issues. The public holds diverse and often conflicting views on ESG topics. As a large financial institution, we have multiple stakeholders, including our shareholders, clients, associates, federal and state regulatory authorities, and the communities in which we operate, and these stakeholders will often have differing priorities and expectations regarding ESG issues. If we take action in conflict with one or another of those stakeholders' expectations, we could experience an increase in client complaints, a loss of business, or reputational harm. We could also face negative publicity or reputational harm based on the identity of those with whom we choose to do business. Any adverse publicity in connection with ESG issues could damage our reputation, ability to attract and retain clients and associates, compete effectively, and grow our business. In addition, proxy advisory firms and certain institutional investors who manage investments in public companies are increasingly integrating ESG factors into their investment analysis. The consideration of ESG factors in making investment and voting decisions is relatively new. Accordingly, the frameworks and methods for assessing ESG policies are not fully developed, vary considerably among the investment community, and will likely continue to evolve over time. Moreover, the subjective nature of methods used by various stakeholders to assess a company with respect to ESG criteria could result in erroneous perceptions or a misrepresentation of our actual ESG policies and practices. Organizations that provide ratings information to investors on ESG matters may also assign unfavorable ratings to RJF. Certain of our clients might also require that we implement additional ESG procedures or standards in order to continue to do business with them. If we fail to comply with specific ESG-related investor or client expectations and standards, or to provide the disclosure relating to ESG issues that any third parties may believe is necessary or appropriate (regardless of whether there is a legal requirement to do so), our reputation, business, financial condition, and/or results of operations, as well as the price of our common and preferred stock, could be negatively impacted. Moreover, there has been increased regulatory focus on ESG-related practices of investment managers. A growing interest on the part of investors and regulators in ESG factors, and increased demand for, and scrutiny of, ESG-related disclosures by asset managers, has likewise increased the risk that we could be perceived as, or accused of, making inaccurate or misleading statements regarding the investment strategies of our funds and exchange-traded funds (ETFs), or our and our funds' and ETFs' ESG efforts or initiatives, commonly referred to as "greenwashing." Such perceptions or accusations could damage our reputation, result in litigation or regulatory enforcement actions, and adversely affect our business.

CONDUCTING SCENARIO ANALYSIS

The TCFD recommends conducting scenario analysis in order to understand business opportunities and vulnerabilities related to climate change. Given the location of our headquarters in St. Petersburg, Florida, we qualitatively reviewed two plausible scenarios with differing severity levels to better understand the potential impact to our operations of physical climate-related risks.

The first scenario assumed a 1:100-year event of a direct hit of a category 3 hurricane to the Tampa Bay region, disrupting our workforce and operations at our corporate headquarters for several weeks. The second scenario assumed a 1:1000-year event of a direct hit of a category 5 hurricane to the Tampa Bay region, resulting in significant personal damage and impact for a large portion of our Tampa Bay workforce. In both scenarios, assumed impacts were modeled after previous storms of similar size. These scenarios were then assessed against our enterprise risk rating scale to understand the potential effect on our business.

The results of this exercise were reviewed with Risk Management leadership, as well as the ERMC, Operational Risk Management Committee (ORMC), and ESGC. The results of this exercise will be incorporated into our continued work to ensure the resiliency of our operations in response to these types of events.

EDUCATING OUR PEOPLE

In addition to regular updates as part of our governance processes, over the past year we held educational sessions with our Risk Management and Internal Audit teams to increase awareness of and better equip the teams with working knowledge of climate risk and its potential impact to our business. As part of the update to the risk taxonomy, climate risk was also added to the enterprise-wide ERM training taken by all Raymond James associates.

RISK MANAGEMENT

Risks are an inherent part of our business and activities. Management of risk, including the impacts of climate change on our business, is critical to our fiscal soundness and profitability. Our risk management processes are multifaceted and require communication, judgement and knowledge of financial products and markets. We have a formal ERM program to assess and review aggregate risks across the firm.

THE ERM PROGRAM IS SUPPORTED BY THE THREE LINES OF RISK MANAGEMENT

The principal risks related to our business activities are market, credit, liquidity, operational, model and compliance. Our three-line approach to risk management creates appropriate redundancy and mutual accountability.

First line: Our Businesses

The first line includes associates who provide solutions or services to meet the needs of clients, such as financial advisors, sales and trading associates, and associates in Operations and Technology. Associates in the first line make sure reasonable controls exist to ensure our business units comply with applicable laws, rules, standards and internal policies. The Supervision function is a critical element of the first line, which helps identify and manage risk through functions such as advisor and client activity reviews, branch oversight and solutions oversight.

Second line: Our Risk Management Functions

The second line – made up of Compliance and Risk Management – supports client-facing businesses and other first-line functions by providing guidance, advice, and oversight to help identify and address risks. Some areas, including Human Resources and Finance, play a hybrid role between first-line duties of identifying and escalating potential risks, and second-line duties such as implementing controls and providing advice designed to protect against risk.

Third line: Internal Audit

The third line – Internal Audit – operates as an independent, objective assurance and consulting area that evaluates risk management, control, and governance processes to continuously improve their reliability and effectiveness.

Along the three lines, the Legal department provides legal advice and guidance to help manage risks and interprets laws and regulations that may be applicable to the firm.

DEFINING CLIMATE RISK

TCFD divides climate-related risks into two categories: physical risk and transition risk.

Physical risks, or the risks related to the physical impact of climate change, include both event-driven risks (acute) and longer-term shifts in climate patterns (chronic). Physical risks may have financial implications for organizations, such as direct damage to assets and indirect impacts from supply chain disruption. Organizations' financial performance may also be affected by changes in water availability, sourcing, and quality; food security; and extreme temperature changes affecting organizations' premises, operations, supply chain, transport needs, and employee safety.

Transition risks include risks related to the transition to a lower-carbon economy. Transitioning to a lower-carbon economy may entail extensive policy, legal, technology, and market changes to address mitigation and adaptation requirements related to climate change. Depending on the nature, speed, and focus of these changes, transition risks may pose varying levels of financial and reputational risk to organizations.

CLIMATE RISK IDENTIFICATION, ASSESSMENT, AND MANAGEMENT

Executive management, in conjunction with the divisions, has identified the following risks that face the enterprise and developed enterprise risk definitions to help analyze, report, and consolidate risks on a comparable basis:

- Market Risk
- Credit Risk
- Liquidity Risk
- Operational Risk
- Model Risk
- Compliance Risk

In 2023, climate risk was formally added to the risk taxonomy. Similar to strategic risk and reputational risk, climate risk should be considered across all enterprise risk categories.

Through our ERM process, the firm evaluates potential risks, and their impact via the Risk and Control Self-Assessment (RCSA) program. The RCSA program is designed to provide guidance for the business to properly assess the risk and control environment using the risk taxonomy, risk rating scales, supplemental risk data and subject matter experts. The risks identified through the RCSA process inform segment risk ratings, which are reported quarterly to the RJF Board and the ERM. Operational risk is also reported quarterly to the RJF ORMC.

In 2022 Raymond James engaged with an external consultant to develop a plan to identify and assess potential climate-related risks in other areas of the enterprise. In 2023, we executed on that plan by performing an initial high-level qualitative risks to identify where there is the potential for climate risk across Raymond James' business areas and risk categories. As a result of this assessment, different scenarios were analyzed to further understand the potential impact of physical climate risk to our operational footprint. For further details on this analysis, please see the Strategy section on pg. 64 of this report.

BUSINESS CONTINUITY

Both acute and chronic physical risks have the potential to impact our facilities. The Business Continuity Planning team regularly conducts physical risk assessments for our main US corporate offices to analyze the potential for disruptions caused by severe weather. Additionally, operational locations are geographically dispersed to diminish risks posed by local and regional disruptions.

METRICS AND TARGETS

Raymond James has established business continuity risk appetite metrics that are monitored quarterly and reviewed by our governance bodies. These metrics help manage risk resulting from potential crisis situations, which could include climate-related events, such as hurricanes.

In addition, we have taken a number of steps in the past year to reduce our resource usage and promote sustainable resource management. See p. 25-30 in the Sustainability section of this report for additional information on these activities, including associated metrics.

For our operational metrics, we measure and report our Scope 1 and Scope 2 greenhouse gas (GHG) emissions. Our Scope 1 emissions are from natural gas, fleet vehicles, diesel fuel and refrigerant. For Scope 2 emissions, we are reporting market-based figures that match our location-based figures as we do not have access to supplier-specific emission factors, nor do we purchase renewable energy certificates or have other contractual elements that guarantee renewable energy. Additionally, robust residual mix emission factors are not available for years we are reporting.

We obtained limited assurance of our 2022 Scope 1 and Scope 2 emissions; the verification statement is available here.
